

Private views on Henry Moore and the city

Personal walks of the Henry Moore
exhibition in the National Museum
in Krakow

One of the important concepts of the Henry Moore exhibition in Krakow is to discover the city. Join us for private views on Henry Moore. International students at the Jagiellonian University – representing different countries and cultures; having different interests and experiences – will guide you through the exhibition presented in four museum branches following their personal discoveries and understanding of Henry Moore’s sculptures. They will demonstrate that one does not need to be an art professional to discuss art.
